OPERATING THE PROGRAM — The Personal Expenditure File is designed to store, manage, and analyze an individual's personal expenses. After running the program the main MENU will appear. This gives you the following options:

(E) Examine expenditures
(F) Percentage analysis
(C) Create monthly file
(S) Save monthly file
(L) Load monthly file

You will want to create a monthly file first. Press "C" and you will be asked to enter the current month and year (format: MON-1983 — 3 letters for month) and your income for that month. You are then asked to enter your monthly expenditures. These are entered as follows: (1) Item (7 letters maximum), (2) Expenditure amount (include decimal). Continue to enter all your monthly expenditures. When finished, press RETURN. You will return to the main MENU.

To examine your monthly expenditures, enter "E". The month/year will be displayed along with your net income for that month. Press the SPACE BAR to examine each expense. When all expenses have been shown, the words END OF FILE will be printed. Press the SPACE BAR once more to view your income after expenses. You will then return to the main menu.

To save your just entered expenditure file, enter "S". Indicate tape ("T") or disk ("D") when asked. Your expenditure file will then be saved to disk.

To view a percentage analysis of your data, enter "P". You will be shown a BAR GRAPH representing the approximate percentage of income for that month. By pressing the F7 key you will be shown the exact percentage of income each expense represents at the top of the bar graph. Press F7 to view each expense amount. After viewing all expense amounts you will return to the main menu.

Note: You may also return to the main menu when viewing the bar graphs by pressing "X".

To load your personal expenditure data from disk at a later time, press "L". Enter the file name you used to create the file (MON-1983). Then indicate tape ("T") or disk ("D") when asked. Your expenditure file will be loaded from disks.
